

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Canobolas Rangers

Brabham 2, 3rd May, 2003

Clichés are often tossed around recklessly when it comes to sports reporting. One saying that would can be used without recklessness for Saturday's clash between Barnstoneworth Ottershaw and Canobolas Blue would be "Soccer was the winner on the day".

A game played in glorious sunshine with lots of banter going to and fro saw lots of old legs new to soccer running around. It may be said that this is where the recklessness came from as both sides had numerous players who had never seriously kicked a soccer ball before. Both teams were there to enjoy a run around and pretend they could play the game.

The crowd were in full voice and the Rangers section were constant with their heckling. The fact that they were heckling their own players only added to the spirit of the game.

The game itself was surprisingly won by Barnies who are notorious travellers. Last year they only managed one win away from the fortress that is Stadium Barnstoneworth where they were undefeated. The thought that so many players new to Barnies might take winning as given might be a setback for the rest of the season. It is quite likely that reality will settle in before too long.

Tim Johnson made an energetic switch from the oval ball game to the round ball. He did notice however that it is easier when there are scrums and lineouts to use as a breather. Steve Adams also made an impact in his debut Barnies game. His first half strike was all that separated the two teams and he has shown that he will take some stopping this season.

Rev Sid, the stalwart settled well into his customary midfield role and fed good ball to the forwards. Bruce Middleton also picked up from last year in a back line that has been decimated by injury since last year. The revamped back line looked impressive on Saturday but judgements will be reserved for a sterner test.

Ed Cato made some good runs up the flanks and looks to be well recovered from knee problems last year. Dan Kennedy on the other hand had a few good runs but looks to be hampered by a knee complaint. It should not diminish his enjoyment of the game but will increase his pain on Sunday as he hobbles around.

A pleasing sight was that of three invalids of varying degrees being able to make it to the game to bolster the Barnie Army. Matt Healey is out of plaster but not ready for bowls yet. Phil Hodges is out of hospital and will join Matt in the Barnie Bowler Boys. Glenn Harpley got his backside in gear enough to even play for Barnies United on Saturday night.

All in all a promising start to both a winning and enjoyable season for Barnies. Hope springs eternal for the Red & White faithful.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Blayney

Napier 1, 10th May, 2003

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw are notorious travellers. The amazing point about this is that many people believe this means that they don't play well away from Stadium Barnstoneworth. While this is generally true, Saturday showed the depths of their tremendous travelling travails.

With 20 players in the squad only ten found their way to Napier Oval at Blayney. Five players set out early knowing the troubles they would encounter. Sadly they did not realise their mistakes until they hit the coast in such places as Gosford, Kurri Kurri and Bondi. When these squad members were finally located, they variously explained their non compass mentis as visiting friends, relatives or attending Mother's Day lunches.

The other five non-attendees apparently had visited the Orange Show and happened to visit a fortune teller. It seems that the Madam in question revealed a red card and these five players believing that they would be sent off in the game simply didn't bother to make the journey. Surprisingly two other players also visited the fortune teller and instead of running away in panic stayed to see the next card. This card was white and the combination of red and white was significant for the famous Red & Whites of Barnstoneworth.

Significantly these two players were Paul Crain and Ash McAleese who scored the 2 goals for Barnies. It is believed that if the five who took off had also stayed for the white cards and had played the score would have been 7-5 instead of 2-5.

So the valiant 10 of Barnies took on the young blokes of Blayney. While Barnies were still thinking murderous thoughts of their team mates, Blayney slotted in two fine goals where young legs flooded past the hapless defence. Keeper Powell was unable to repel the rush although for the second goal his clearance struck the hordes and fell for an easy put away.

Down but not out, the Red & White passion stirred and one goal was pulled back when Dan Kennedy put Crain away for the "easiest of finishes" so said Dan. Blayney rushed for another before the McAleese strike, stumble, fall, roll, goal made it 2-3 at halftime.

The second half saw opportunities on both sides and the play was relatively open. The last gasp defence on each side kept the goals at bay until the tired old Barnie legs could not stop another goal.

Still Ottershaw pressed but could not make the most of their attack. Five quick succession corners could not be converted and, with the penultimate kick of the game, Blayney made the result 5-2. Not a fitting reward for the valiant ten but they are the ones who know that they will be able to hold their heads high at training this week.

Thankfully Barnies should not have to travel away from Orange again so it is only the short travels now that will be the problem. And the word is beware the return to the Stadium in 2 weeks time.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Kinross 2nd

XI

Kinross North, May 17th, 2003

There has been a propensity towards reality television in recent times. There is a faction within the Barnstoneworth juggernaut that is pressing for reality journalism to keep up with the times. However it was found during a recent poll that not many people are interested in fat old fellas running aimlessly around the field on Saturday afternoons. The concept has now been discarded.

It is often said that history is written by the winners. So it appears to be Barnies' fate to record the history of the clash with Kinross 2nds on Saturday. While reality journalism is not being pursued it must be said that a modicum of truth is always a good starting point. Hence the score line of 3-1 seems to be as good a point as any.

The scorer was made to work from the first minute as Mal Key was lurking on the right flank for Barnies and taking the ball he beat 17 defenders then hammered the ball past the astonished Kinross keeper to record his first ever goal. In celebration he back flipped his way back for the restart.

The rest of the half was almost anticlimactic after such a start with Barnies generally controlling the midfield but unable to extend the lead. There were a few tense moments as the young students were able to outpace their aged opponents but could not finish off their good work with only the keeper to beat.

Rev Sid Grindley made a welcome return and was largely responsible for Barnies domination of the midfield. The wise head and trained body showcased the skills that make him a crowd favourite. Bruce Middleton, also missed last week, was back to his best in the backline pushing the attacks wider where they were easier to close down.

Sinisa, the mobile Serbian mountain, was again popping up regularly and relished another chance to stretch his legs up front.

The second half started in much the same manner as the first with Sid 'Red Fox' Grindley using his wiles to shoot from the edge of the crowded box to chalk another goal for Barnies. Many thought it selfish when he'd struck the ball as there were numerous players open out wide. But the maestro knew what he was doing.

The next best chance for the Red & Whites to score was from a penalty awarded when Ash McAleese was attacked from behind by the frustrated students. Skipper Powell stepped up to the mark and struck the ball sweetly and straight. The keeper had no chance as it whistled past in a flash. Sadly the score line wasn't affected as the ball also sailed past the wrong side of the crossbar.

Kinross pulled one back on another of their rushes that they managed to finish so the Barnie Army was relieved when Mal Key again returned the deficit to two with another fine strike. It left Key with about 15 minutes to complete his hat trick which he was unable to do. He was however thrilled with his two goals.

So Barnstoneworth Ottershaw have had three matches away from the Stadium winning two. One more than they were able to win away last year. The first match at the fortress this week is much anticipated and the crowd is expected to be monstrous.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v East Orange Red

Stadium Banstoneworth, May 24th, 2003

The expected triumphant return to Stadium Barnstoneworth for Ottershaw was not on offer on Saturday as they went down to East Orange Red 1-3. It should have been a red letter day as it was the first time that the two Barnstoneworth sides had played home matches side by side. Ottershaw, with the bigger crowd pleasers took Stadium Barnstoneworth while United played at Barnies Stadium next door.

Sadly the match will be known for the unsportsmanlike behaviour of Ottershaw. It appears that the players have been developing their sledging techniques of late and were trying to put this to use on Saturday. It was the ugly side of modern sport that sadly reared its head.

Club Supremo tried to explain away the behaviour. "You've got to remember that these guys are getting on a bit and losing their faculties. They're really quite impressionable. It's been over 30 years since some of them have seen much success on the sporting field."

And so it seems that they have been influenced by the Australian cricket team and saw sledging as a way to success. This did not work well and the point was emphasised when it was shown that their technique left much to be desired. The best that they could come up with was when Phil Jackson suggested the mother of one Easts player, wore army boots. The veracity of such a statement was brought home to Phil by the lady in question as she made virtually non-existent his future chances of further fatherhood.

This is not the first foray into borrowed culture by Barnies. The widely used practice of raising a shirt over one's head to celebrate the scoring of a goal had to be banned last year after many in the Stadium lost the contents of their stomachs over the site revealed. The staff at the ground refused to clean the mess so the practice was outlawed.

The game itself was a tense affair on Saturday and The Bernie Army was in full voice when the Red & Whites went up early through an Ash McAleese strike that left the keeper floundering.

With the ebb and flow of the game progressing, Easts eventually got one back through a centred ball that wasn't effectively covered.

With the scores locked at halftime it was hoped that the unbeaten run at the Stadium would continue even tho the Stadium had been relocated over summer. Sadly Easts managed to snap the defensive line of Barnies and get one past the scrambling defence and it was then hard for Barnies to catch up.

Mal Key, after his sensational double last week was in goal scoring form. He struck again this week with the ball coming into the far post from a corner, neatly onto his head and into the net. Unfortunately, as luck would have it, this did not make the score 2-2 but 1-3 and there it remained.

It is rumoured that some of the glory boys in Barnstoneworth United are disappointed at the lack of coverage their games receive. It should therefore be noted that they prevailed over CYMS White 2-0 on Saturday. Any lamented the lack of coverage for Saturday need only look as far as the socks on Saturday to see the difference in passion, spirit and regard for tradition that means the Army will generally follow Ottershaw to the ends of the Earth. It should also be noted that as a club Barnies have one more games than they have lost which, this far into the season, is almost unprecedented. Hip hip hooray!!!

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Kinross 3rd XI

Stadium Banstoneworth, May 31st, 2003

God is in Heaven and all is right with the world. Some may say that this goes a little too far but the Barnie Army are certainly happy that Barnstoneworth Ottershaw have won again at Stadium Barnstoneworth. The fortress was toppled last week for the first time in 18 months so it was nice to see the losing streak only lasted one week. Ottershaw overcame the vigorous students of Kinross 3rds by 5-1.

Word also has it that Richard Evans, coaching guru of the Central West feels more confident in his commission to turn around the fortunes of the once mighty Barnstoneworth. Rumour has it that a loss this week would have seen the end of his contract and his career in ruins.

"I was about to come out of the dugout and kick their backsides when they let them get back to 2-1", said a relieved Evans. As it was they came out on fire in the second half after an Evans outburst saw the need for renovations in the dressing rooms. "I just get so passionate about Barnies" was Evans feeble excuse.

Tim Johnson, who is just starting his career, is trying to find his spot on the team. This week he started from the backline and managed something he hasn't been able to do from further upfield. He scored a scintillating goal from the edge of the box. The beautiful strike found the top left corner of the net and was as good a finish as has been seen for some time.

The Red & Whites certainly controlled the game, taking it wide at times. At others going straight up the middle. For all the dominance they only managed another goal before half-time by Steve Adams who had earlier been denied by the linesman's flag.

The goal that brought Evans to his feet came about when "Little Tim" Johnson, with newfound confidence after his goal, tried to be fancy at the back only to be robbed and bring down the thief in the area. The ensuing penalty was clinically put away and the difference was only one at half-time.

Barnies struck early in the second half when Powell moved up front to intimidate the opposition. Through this intimidation, or perhaps distraction by laughter, he managed a left footer that got past the keeper.

Drew Haydon, in only his second game slotted one in some time later and it was just reward for strong work on the ball and hard running displayed throughout the match.

Mal Key has been looking for redemption for his mistake last week and has claimed credit for forcing a Kinross own goal late in the game. His sheer will is believed to be responsible but whether he has been forgiven is not yet decided. The Barnie Army is more fickle than that.

The Barnie Army was invigorated by the return of Brenda Gordon this week. With his customary runs from back to front and charges across the field he was a welcome sight and the team quickly adapted to his free range approach to positional play.

Barnstoneworth United had a bye this week and it was good to see the support from a significant number of United players. Matt Healey was also in the stands espousing the significance of the number zero. "It's a conceptual thing and comes in very handy in physics and so many other areas of life."

Ottershaw now move back into the top half of the table and look forward to the next two weeks at the Stadium to consolidate themselves. The goals are flowing and a good time is being had by just about all.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Canobolas Pink

Stadium Banstoneworth, June 7th, 2003

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw have spoilt a perfect win-loss record that they have maintained for the first five rounds. They threw form and consistency out the window and the Barnie Army is not happy.

Phil Hodges, the apparent leader of the army, agreed that the party might be over. "The way the guys were going, we were thinking this was going to be the best season for some time. They just chucked away the script. I'm devastated. At least they spoil the record by winning."

It appears that up until now they had won, lost won, lost won. If this had continued it would have been a good season for them. Now, winning two in a row, their season is in disarray.

The signs were not good from the start. Canobolas Pink have not beaten Ottershaw since June 2001. The game was at Stadium Barnstoneworth and to top it all off, Ottershaw lost the toss. These are all signs of a win and so we shouldn't be surprised at the result.

The Ottershaw dominance of Canobolas Pink is odd, as on paper it should not be so. Pink have more pedigree and younger, fitter legs on the whole. Ottershaw were hit by injuries and retirements at the start of the season but recent signings, who were an unknown quality have proved to be worth the money paid.

Ash McAleese and Drew 'Rooster' Haydon have both proved valuable doing the running that traditionally Barnies don't bother with. They have brought an impetus to the team that the rest are trying to understand.

The match was very evenly balanced throughout and it was a Trent Brown strike that broke the deadlock. Brown continued a tradition of first time scorers for Barnies this year. Ottershaw have scored 14 goals so far this year with 11 different players, 7 of whom had never scored a goal before.

The Pink boys came out fighting after the goal and it was only minutes later that Ryan Bevan again embarrassed keeper Powell by heading a corner through the big guy's legs.

The second half saw end to end play but it was the fancy footwork of Dan Kennedy that fooled Pink. Kennedy was pleased as he had been hampered by injury and lacked a little desire so far this year.

Again the Pink Boys came out fighting but this time the attacks were repelled and Barnies ran out 2-1 winners.

It should be mentioned that Mal Key's travelling fan club filled many of the seats in the Stadium. Their vocal support has been a feature of Barnies games this year. The difficulty for Key is to live up to their expectations.

So the Stadium increases it's hold over visiting teams and Canobolas Pink again scratch their heads over their inability to overcome Ottershaw. The deviation from form and consistency is unexpected and supporters may not be happy but at the least the deviation was on a positive side. Let's hope it's not the thin end of the wedge for a return to mediocrity.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v CYMS Carinya

Stadium Banstoneworth, June 14th, 2003

There were many things that were ugly for Barnstoneworth Ottershaw on Saturday. For starters you only need look at their keeper to know the story. And it doesn't get any better the further up the field you travel. Except perhaps for new boy Drew Haydon. Many don't believe he fits in the team as he runs too hard anyway.

The ugliness had many facets on Saturday as they went down to CYMS Carinya in another loss at the Stadium. The day was bleak and miserable. The goal that separated the sides was certainly ugly from the Barnie Army's point of view. The ugly wound that opened in defence allowed the CYMS player time to control the ball and play it round before slotting it into the side of the net.

It was looking like a long day for Barnies as, in comparison CYMS were very pretty to watch. Their passing was accurate and their work on the ball was effective. However, the rest of the day belonged to the ugly defence and desperation of Ottershaw. The spirit of Barnies was the only thing that was scenic and it certainly shone through the ugliness of the day.

Trent Brown again was reliable and cleared well at the back. His return this year to the team has seen more gusto in recent weeks as he has found his stride. 'Hit man' Jackson was back and relishing the contest after a couple of weeks away on other duties. Jacko's no nonsense style has dented the pride of many an opposition striker.

Paul Crain covered his usual amount of ground and defended his territory well. He manages to bob up well at the right time to get the ball to safety. The wily red fox, Sid Grindley, is always a favourite of the Barnie Army. The cheer that goes up is heard throughout Orange when he casually plays the ball around at his feet and then finds a team mate.

Despite being outplayed Barnies did exceptionally well to only lose by one goal and there were certainly many chances that could have levelled the game. This might have been a travesty for the skill but not for the passion and intensity of performance.

Some attacking raids by Barnies could the CYMS defence by surprise and if not for a touch of finishing prowess the game could have been levelled.

There was a moment late in the match where the CYMS keeper was definitely worried about a cross that went over his head only to lamely bounce across the goalmouth.

There are detractors of Barnies who believed that there lofty position on the table was an aberration but they showed on Saturday that they are able to compete well with the best. They might not maintain their heights but they certainly have deserved their position.

The final ugliness of the day only happened well after the whistle had blown. It was not witnessed by many and can only be imagined here. It happened when 'TJ' Johnson had to go home to explain the state of the family skiing trip after he did a significant amount of further damage to his knee. All the best Tim.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Cudal

Brabham 16, June 21st, 2003

There was dismay in the Sale St Barnstoneworth HQ this week as the world heard the Beckham news. Word is that Beckham was ready to sign with Barnies and had all but put pen to paper.

"He'd been to Orange and loved the feel of the club. He thought it was a great place to bring up his kids," said club CEO Phil Hodges. " We're stunned as he seemed so happy about the deal."

Apparently there were cold feet on the part of Manchester United. They believed their supporter base would leave in droves to join the Bernie Army. The loss in merchandising was seemingly too great a cost for the club.

"'Davo' would have just finished off our line up" said a dejected Dan Kennedy, club stalwart. "We're really happy with the rest of the line-up and he would have just completed us off and given us a good shot at the title."

While the club has been despondent it also affected their play on Saturday as they went down to Cudal 1-6. Before the match the two sides were equal on the table. The winner making it to the top four meant there was much at stake.

Some in the vast crowd said that the Cudal goals were against the run of play. After last week's effort where Barnies were outplayed only to lose by one goal, this week saw them competing better but losing by a wide margin.

"They deserved to win. No doubt about it" said Sarajevon midfielder Sinisa Kosarac, "but the margin was more like what we deserved last week." Kosarac has enjoyed more of a roving commission this year and is relishing the chance to run and play the ball.

Dave Craig is another who is taking his opportunities. As a rookie this year, he has been an unknown factor but he is a quiet achiever and is developing well. He is not particularly noticed but is generally picking up some best and fairest points. He and Beckham would surely have dominated the midfield. Throw the old red fox, Sid Grindley into the equation, and they would have no equal. Que sera, sera!!

It's the story of Barnies that they are beaten by younger fitter teams. There was no exception this week as Cudal stormed through the backline and made the most of their opportunities. Some of the goals appeared to be in slow motion but only one of the two penalties was converted by Cudal. The other was nearly saved but the rebound was put away just before half time.

Down four at halftime, Barnies worked harder in the second half and the 2-1 scorline in the second term gave the Bernie Army something to cheer after the disappointment of the week.

Barnies goal was made by 'Rooster' Haydon who had been pressuring the keeper all day. He caused a fumble which was put away by Mal Key who goes to the top of the goal scorer list this year. Haydon had also forced the Cudal Keeper to take a ball outside his box. The resultant free kick was not put away but must have helped the goal that eventually came.

Another curiosity was the return of 'TJ' Johnson who was not expected to return for some time after a recurring knee injury flared last week. Apparently 'the missus was away'. The bookies are not taking any odds for Tim to play next week as they have lost too much money in recent weeks.

Barnstoneworth Ottershaw v Orange Strikers

Brabham 4, June 28th, 2003

It was a black day for the Red & Whites on Saturday. The combined loss of both teams was a dark, dark 14-6. This even after each team had managed to craft two goal leads.

Taking a while to come to terms with reporting on the matches, we will first turn to Barnies HQ news. The big news this week is the resignation of team doctor Gareth Thomas. "It's time I moved on to leaner pastures." Apparently he's been telling a number of players to lose weight for some time.

Dr Thomas verified the rumours that he was leaving because he is disappointed with the way things have been going. "I started the work because I have an interest in sports medicine. I think I need to move elsewhere as my work mostly entails aged care rather than [sports medicine]."

"There are certainly elements of the sprains and strains that I am looking for but rather too much of the arthritis and Alzheimer's for it to be right. I'd prefer to help them recover from injuries sustained on the field not from putting the rubbish out."

"It's a sad day for us " said veteran midfielder Chris Jacobs. "Gareth's been around for some time and given us the confidence to get on the field. He was able to help us when we'd forget which way we were supposed to run or what our team's name is. He even had a plan to put names on our shirts so we'd never forget them."

Barnies Ottershaw in the B Division took on the lads from Orange Strikers. Strikers have become a bogey team for Ottershaw and yet again, a game they were looking to win was not as easy as it seemed. At 3-1 after strikes from Dan Kennedy, 'Rooster' Haydon and an own goal neatly put away by Strikers, the march to victory looked a formality.

Strikers have never been big on formality and each goal they pulled back gave them more and more confidence. They started to run harder and those weary legs could not turn back the clock or the tide. Kennedy did manage another goal late in the game to give him his first double for some time.

A well deserved victory to Strikers and Ottershaw will clearly have to find ways of getting past them when they meet again.

"Et tu, Bruté?" Close enough to "8-2 Barnies" for United to not be happy in their local derby against Waratahs at Stadium Barnstoneworth. They could not even manage the 8-1 scoreline that would have enabled the Barnie Army to go home and trash their houses in the sure knowledge that they were fulfilling a long standing Barnies tradition.

With houses in tact but sanity shattered the Barnie Army left the ground after United squandered a 2 goal lead thanks to a brace of goals to Damian Priest. Waratahs have not managed the results they were expecting this year and once they got on top of Barnies they thrilled in the rush of goals they put away.

With only one point from the last three weeks Barnstoneworth are hoping something will turn their fortunes around. Thomas's departure will not help the club but there are plans to recruit heavily. It is hoped the $22.24 available to spend will attract the big names to the club. The chequebook is open and the Army holds it's breath.

Barnstoneworth United v Canobolas Rangers

Brabham 1, July 5th, 2003

They say that dreams have no colour. This was proved incorrect on Saturday as the dream of the day was Red & White.

The favourite past time of any Bernie reporter is to stick the knife in to the glory boys from United. After the sad and abject failure of the week before, this week was looking to be a good week for such pursuits. That pleasure can happily be put aside for now as United put it all together to beat the competition front-runners and previously undefeated Canobolas Rangers.

Barnstoneworth have had an unusual year with wins against well credentialed opponents but losses to lowly placed teams. This day was one of the highs. Barnies being given a 41/2 goal start by most of the Bernie Army. Only the faithful made money this week.

It is hard to know what made the difference this week. Perhaps it was that the loyalties of the Bernie Army were undivided as Ottershaw had the bye this week. Perhaps it was United playing with the spirit usually reserved for Ottershaw. Maybe the fact that a number of key players were out injured that the others lifted themselves. Or perhaps it was just the way things go in sport and the evenness of the competition was on display.

The Bernie Keeper, whose name momentarily escapes me, appeared to bulk up this week in anticipation of a heavy workload. As it was he had comparatively little to do and never had to pick the ball from the back of the net.

Of the general play there was some nice passing and ball retention by Rangers but their attacks seemed to fall at the final hurdle. The scrambling Barnies defence had their measure although there were a few tense moments.

The more the game went on the more frustrated Rangers became. There were some heated moments with Paul Miskell firing up for the game and Rangers saw him as a target for their frustration. A yellow card settled things a little but Canobolas were rattled.

Paul Bloomfield was one of the Autumn signings for Barnies and he has been magical to watch. His surgical first touches and clinical disposals from the backline prove what an asset he is. He was rewarded when he moved forward for a corner in the first half. His header was all that separated the sides on the scoresheet and was described as about the best Barnies goal ever seen.

Bloomfield nearly managed another header from a corner in the second half but it saved the wrong side of the crossbar.

Damian Priest is another who had a strong game. His forays up front troubled the Canobolas defence and could easily have had a goal of his own. It has been good to see Scott Hennessy leaving the comfort of his corporate box of our sponsors Skilled Engineering and he ran hard. Perhaps a little less of the comfort would help him even more.

A good week for Barnies with no major crises emanating from Barnies HQ and a brilliant win to top it all off. Weeks like this are rare in Barnies history so perhaps we should be allowed to wallow for a short while. With these guys the next drama is never far away.
